Opening the doors !!!

Welcome to the International Journal of Prosthetic Dentistry, we from this online journal are trying to make new avenues for 'experiencing' Prosthodontics. The motive of this journal is to give the readers the best of the quality Original researches, Reviews, Case reports, Newer techniques and above all the latest Book and Product reviews, which would help the readers to keep the pace with the updates we are also trying to upload the videos of the standard procedure and which will enhance the readers to the know and learn more about prosthodontics. The International Journal of Prosthetic Dentistry is just stepping in as the editorial board is aware of the lacunae, which are present in other journals. We, the editorial team will try and focus on the latest updates on researches, reviews, materials and techniques so as to augment the information and to stimulate interest, debate, discussion and interaction among dentists and specialists of all disciplines within the field of dentistry. We will also try to introduce the online supporting systems, which can answer the query of the authors, readers and subscribers through becoming users of this journal by registering.

We will rely on honesty, integrity, strength and ability of our contributors to place IJPD among the very best. The editorial policy of IJPD will be to disseminate among its readers factual information on research, clinical practice and cases of interests in Prosthodontics. The board is dynamic; it will offer a platform to the contributors to address the evolution and new areas of interest in the specialty. The International Journal of Prosthetic Dentistry will be consistent in their aim to publish pertinent Prosthodontic information with minimal delay from the time of submission.

In addition to articles, the journal provides a repository for resources such as links, curricula, data sets, syllabi, software, and instructional materials which developers may wish to make available free to the open source community.

We wish to express our sincere gratitude to the dedicated editorial board for their efforts and to our contributors. We also want to wish our readers a happy and serene Diwali.
