

Editorial Message

We welcome all of you to the online version of the International Journal of Prosthetic Dentistry. It gives us immense pleasure and satisfaction in bringing out second issue. This Journal, which has been published since last year, is a peer-reviewed publication, appearing 4 times per year and facilitates a window to access the finest scientific and clinical material produced.

The response we have received from our first issue has strengthened our determination to maintain the highest standards in bringing to you scientific publications of merit. The Journal will now be appearing in a combined on-line / print format. This initiative will make our publication much more interactive for readers. This is a free online access journal through which any of the readers can access abstracts, selected full-text articles and editorials. We express our appreciation to our well wishers for their support.

We invite you to contact us with your comments, suggestions and criticisms.
